

Walk Report for 16th November 2023 at Hinton Ampner

4 intrepid members of ORC set off on Thursday 16th November to Hinton Ampner for a 7 mile walk. It was a very wet morning with a dismal forecast, however we decided to continue. It was a good decision because the rain eased to a drizzle and we had a very enjoyable walk. We set off from the Hinton Arms, skirted around the National Trust grounds and headed out into the fields towards Bramdean. We then headed to Bramdean common, on the way having wonderful views across open fields, and saw a deer and buzzard as we progressed. Then we turned east heading for Cheriton wood, walked along the side of the wood, enjoying the autumn colours, and ending up at the Wayfarers Way which we followed for a short period of time before turning south to Cheriton village and finally back to the Hinton Arms for a well deserved lunch.
