

Sunday 25th August

Six walkers set off on a beautiful Sunday morning. Initially heading west through Stockbridge, then south for a 7.5 mile circular route. We had beautiful views over the countryside, as well as typical paths with high hedges and, with some up and downhill stretches, followed byways to Houghton. We then walked a short section of the Clarendon Way, across tributaries of the river Test, with an obligatory stop to watch the river and look for trout, to reach the Test Way towards Stockbridge, finishing on the Common Marsh area that took us into the centre of the town and a well deserved coffee from the Deli, which we enjoyed with a snack in the churchyard.
