

Walk Report for 24th August 2025

We had the perfect weather for this 5½ mile walk from Facombe to Ashmansworth and back. Four people and one dog set off from The Jack Russell pub to enjoy a section of the Wayfarer's Way and quite a few hill climbs across beautiful open countryside, wildflower meadows and wooded paths. Of course, what goes up leads to the best views and we had a super clear day from the top of Pilot Hill, the highest point in Hampshire, for a wonderful panoramic scene across North Hampshire and Berkshire. We finished with a drink back at the pub.
